VIDEO: Watch UFO attack Taliban camp

May 07, 2014 22:19

By Chris Richards

The clip shows a triangular shaped airborne craft open fire on an insurgent position, sending a huge plume of smoke into the sky

SHOCKED American forces have filmed a UFO blasting a Taliban base to pieces.

Marines who took the incredible footage said the triangular object responsible for the devastating attack did not look like any known military drone.

The unidentified craft was seen slowly moving into position not far ahead of a stationary US armoured column.

Silent muzzle flashes were then seen coming from its underside.

A split-second later huge explosions erupted.

Massive grey clouds of smoke and dust then rose from what is believed to be a blitzed Taliban camp.

After the skies cleared, the cameraman zoomed in to shoot a close-up of the UFO.

The clip was reportedly filmed in March by a soldier who was standing next to his armoured vehicle.

Last night there was speculation on the internet that the Taliban attacker could in fact be one of two top-secret aircraft.

Some suggested it was one called the SR-72, which manufacturer Lockheed Martin has said it is developing but does not expect to complete until 2030.

Other websites believed it could be the result of a top secret US project called the TR-3B which no government has ever admitted exists.

But descriptions and diagrams of the machine have appeared on conspiracy websites and discussion sites for technology fans, including darkgovernment.com.

These have included posts from people claiming to have worked on the project, which they say is highly classified and paid for from a secret budget.

With Nato forces now withdrawing from Afghanistan, any outside intervention from an unknown ally would be welcomed as the country strives to stop extremists regaining power.

Most international troops are due to pull out at the end of the year.

There are fears the Afghan army and police are not ready to take over the security of the country.
